

CALLING A BISHOP

A Guide to Prepare for the 2020 Northeastern Iowa Synod Assembly

INTRODUCTION

Electing a bishop is one of the most important decisions made by assemblies of this church. We depend upon the ministry of bishops to provide leadership, vision, wisdom, guidance, public witness, and pastoral care.

THE MINISTRY OF A BISHOP

As ordained ministers of Word and Sacrament of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, bishops are called as pastors of a synod or of this church. Bishops, therefore, are persons who adhere to our Lutheran confessional understanding of the Christian faith.

The ministry of a synodical bishop is described carefully in provision 10.31. of the ELCA churchwide constitution and in Chapter 8, provision †S8.12 and following, in the Constitution for Synods. “As this synod’s pastor,” the bishop is called to oversee, administer, preach, provide pastoral care, advise, exercise leadership, ordain, advocate, interpret, and serve as synodical ecumenical officer. This work takes shape within the mission goals, context, and structure of each synod. The individual serving as bishop also shapes the office.

As you approach the election of a bishop, consider:

- What are this synod’s priorities for ministry?
- What are our greatest challenges, opportunities, resources and liabilities?
- Where do we want to be in the next five to 10 years?
- What priorities and emphases do we have for leadership?
- What qualities, experiences, skills and leadership styles would serve us best?

WHO MAY SERVE AS A BISHOP

The Constitution, Bylaws, and Continuing Resolutions of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America and the Constitution for Synods state that the presiding bishop and the synodical bishop “shall be a minister of Word and Sacrament of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America.” (See churchwide constitutional provision 13.21. and synodical constitutional provision †S8.11.). There are no further requirements or limitations. Thus, we may nominate from a pool of 16,001 Ministers of Word and Sacrament, as of Dec. 31, 2018.

In addition to a deep and abiding faith commitment, pastors who might serve as bishop will need to have broad skills in pastoral care and preaching, administrative leadership, and the ability to lift up a vision for the this church and its ministry. Pastors who serve in all the various arenas of ministry throughout this church—congregations, agencies, institutions, and synodical and churchwide staff—have gifts and skills that may commend them for consideration in the calling of a new bishop.

BISHOP ELECTION PROCESS

The election of the bishop takes place during the synod assembly. The Northeastern Iowa Synod uses an ecclesiastical ballot, which means there are no verbal or written nominations made in advance of the first ballot.

PRAYERS AND CONVERSATIONS

We pray for the guidance of the Holy Spirit throughout the election process. Some people are more comfortable seeking that counsel individually, keeping their thoughts private and not speaking about the process. Some people discern the spirit’s guidance in conversation and debate with others. They feel comfortable telling others what they think and inviting others to join them in those convictions.

Regardless of which process is used, all who engage in discussion should exercise great care to do so in a pattern of prayerful reflection, education, and Spirit-led deliberation which avoids divisiveness and the appearance of campaigning or political advocacy. The counsel of the Holy Spirit is granted to God’s people in a variety of settings. We can trust the Holy Spirit to be active in our private deliberations and in our conversations with others as we seek God’s wisdom and guidance.

As the people of God, we prayerfully enter into this process of discernment and deliberation. The election of a bishop marks the beginning of a new or renewed partnership in ministry. In the days ahead, be diligent in your own faithful and creative service to God’s people and God’s world, and work together in honesty and trust.
